Why It's a Deal According to a recent search on Kayak, multicity airfare (New York to Vienna, Vienna to Paris, Paris to New York) costs $879 in early December (Delta and Air France). For $670 more, this package covers airfare, plus six nights' accommodations with breakfast daily. Based on these airfare rates and stays at the Banville and the Capri, you save $401 by booking this package. However, if you're interested in the other two hotels, it's worth doing some comparison pricing for your specific travel dates and gateway city, because it may be cheaper to book the package elements independently. We priced stays at the Golden Tulip and the Savoy in early December, and they came to $635 per person. With current airfares, this would make the package cost $35 more than booking independently.

More Extend your stay at either hotel in Paris for $66 per person per night based on double occupancy, or $113 per night based on single occupancy. Extra nights at either hotel in Vienna cost $157 per person per night based on double occupancy, or $294 per person per night based on single occupancy.
