ATLANTA, GA - Belk Phipps Plaza and Belk Town Center will welcome women for "Girls' Night Out," a semi-annual event showcasing this season's hottest trends on Thursday, April 8 from 5 to 8:30 p.m..

"All women, including the over 1,000 members and friends of the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers will attend this evening of shopping, networking and fun," the release said.

"All of us at GAWL thank Belk for its continued sponsorship of GAWL and its solid commitment to our organization," says Irma Espino of the Wiggins Law Group. "Thanks to the support of companies like Belk, a Strategic Partner and platinum sponsor, all of us at GAWL can focus on our mission to enhance the welfare and development of women lawyers and their interests."

In addition to a storewide discount, giveaways and gifts from Belk brands, "Girls' Night Out" guests who purchase $50 of Intimate Apparel merchandise can spin the "Wheel of Fortune" for a chance to win an assortment of wonderful prizes. Refreshments include a treat all the way from the exclusive Crumbs Bakery in New York and a live DJ who will keep the music spinning.

Photographer Marc Grauer with Specialty Imaging will photograph the event and images will be available for print and download at www.siiphotos.com/GirlsNightOut.

About GAWL: The Georgia Association for Women Lawyers (GAWL) was founded in 1928 as the voice for women lawyers in Georgia and as the springboard for women lawyers to become leaders in their communities and the legal profession. Currently, GAWL includes almost 1,100 active members throughout the State. GAWL is Georgia's premier networking organization for women lawyers and provides members with opportunities to develop leadership skills, build a personal referral source for business, establish an individual niche in Georgia's legal community and enjoy social events.
