ATLANTA, June 29, 2011 - This month, a new eatery is preparing to open its doors in the Sweet Auburn Curb Market: Sweet Auburn BBQ, so named for the location, is putting final touches on its space inside the historic market.

"The Sweet Auburn Curb Market continues to attract new businesses to downtown Atlanta," notes Pamela Joiner, General Manager. "And the newest one is another example of truck to market. The owners started Sweet Auburn BBQ as a truck at one of our Urban Picnics."

The Sweet Auburn Curb Market hosts its twice-monthly Urban Picnics on the last Friday and on each second Saturday of the month through October, featuring a variety of food trucks and food artisans. The next picnic is on Saturday, July 9 from 12 - 3PM. "To make sure you don't miss an event, sign up on our Facebook page and receive reminders, which include a list of trucks and local chefs," reminds Joiner.

Sweet Auburn BBQ offers slow smoked BBQ. The culinary team of Richard Shelor, Howard Hsu and David Buster first started with a food truck, but then decided to also open their fixed location in July. Check Facebook for the exact opening date.

"So make plans to visit the Market for lunch soon - and remember to pick up some fresh fruit and vegetables, baked goods, and coffee too," invites Joiner. "Our merchants are open Monday through Saturday from 8AM to 6PM."
